François Baschet loves his town, but the place he loves most there is The Meadow Park Zoo, which opened three months _____ near his home. The new zoo is quite small, compared to other similar attractions. You won't find any dangerous animals such as lions or tigers in cages. Instead, there is a children's zoo _____ children can handle little animals like rabbits and mice. They can also have rides on a camel, a horse or an elephant. The zoo has a working farm, too. People are _____ to feed certain animals in that area of the zoo. Kids love it! 'Lots of city children don't understand what happens on a farm. It's important for them to see for themselves where their milk and eggs come from and how to take care of the animals,' a member of the zoo staff explained.

François frequently takes his children to the zoo at weekends; he has _____ taken them there lots of times. Both of them really enjoy it! Last Saturday François went to the zoo with his children. They took the bus _____ François' car was out of order. When they got to the zoo, the weather was warm and sunny, but soon it got cold and many clouds formed in the sky.

_____, they didn't leave the zoo. They went to the farm for the children to play with the rabbits. But _____ they were playing on the farm, it started to rain, so they _____ to leave in a hurry. _____ they couldn't see all the animals, they were all happy anyway. After getting home, François's wife gave them a cup of hot chocolate and some biscuits. _____ the weather is fine next weekend, they'll go to the zoo again.
