The mysterious secret of Samantha

Samantha and her friend Jessy were sitting in the city park, reminiscing about the good times they had together from their youth to adulthood.

Jessy says to Samantha: You remember when I used to say I was your girlfriend!

Ahah, those were good the days!! when we used to visit your mom and she would cook us the most delicious food in the world! What good times and now 15 years later you are still my best friend. Yes, Jessy it's been long years of everything happening; and we used to do so many things together like playing ball, playing guitar and let's not forget eating sushi just because it was your favorite food. ha-ha! how I used to hate this part.

The transition from male to female has not been easy, but there are good parts of it things I didn't used to do, that now I do them like; cutting my beard, changing my name from Samantha to Samuel because what a terrible name I used to have. Imagine now we can go out shopping and wear the same dresses and before I used to just wear those terrible long shirts that didn't enhance my figure. Ahaha! You are amazing samantha and you deserve all the happiness in this world.
