Life in a Village

When God sent men into the world, _____ (1) built their societies. The places which were over-crowded were called cities, whereas the places which were less crowded were called _____ (2). Usually, a village _____ (3) of a few small huts and mud houses. It is deprived of modern progress and development and many other facilities _____ (4) life. The tall trees and lush green fields make a village _____ (5) worth-living and worth seeing. Seventy percent of our total population of Pakistan _____ (6) in villages. Beauty is at its best in a village. The beauty of nature is seen only in a village. If we want to see nature in its real shape and colour, there is no _____ (7) place than a village to observe all this. The rising and setting of the sun in a village is full of charms and it always brings comfort to our eyes. The mornings in a village are _____ (8) of extreme freshness and happiness, whereas its evenings are amazingly cool and peaceful. There are swaying fields and lush green shadowy trees all around. Fresh air and open atmosphere are the gifts of _____ (9) which cast a spell on the villagers. The landscapes of our villages are so alluring and captivating that no one wants to take his eyes _____ (10) them.

LIVEWORKSHEETS