	<shampoo>
1	The word shampoo comes from the Hindi word chāmpo, / which means "to press."
2	In India, the word was used for a head massage.
3	British traders in India experienced a bath with a head massage
	/ and introduced it to Britain in the 18th century.
4	The meaning of the word shampoo changed a few times
	/ after it first entered English around 1762.
5	In the 19th century, shampoo got its present meaning of "washing the hair."
6	Shortly after that, the word began to be also used for a special soap for the hair.

	<robot>
7	The word robot comes from the play R.U.R.*,
	/ which was written in 1920 by a Czech writer Karel Čapek.
8	In the play, robots are machines that look like humans.
9	They are designed to work for humans and are produced in a factory.
10	It is interesting that the idea of using the word robot didn't come from Karel Čapek himself.
11	He originally called the machines in his play labori / from the Latin word for "work."
12	However, his brother suggested roboti, / which means "slave workers" in Czech.
13	Karel Čapek liked the idea / and decided to use the word roboti.
14	In 1938, the play was made into a science fiction show / on television in Britain.
