Black Panther

T'Challa was known as Black Panther. He was the king and protector of his country, Wakanda. He earned the crown of his father. He was given a magic juice that gave him special powers that made him strong, run faster and jump high.

Black Panther was called a superhero because he wanted to save his community from the villain Killmonger who wanted to take over Wakanda. In the movie, it was presented that Black Panther returned to his village to save his people from being bullied by rebels and the villain. He demonstrated courage and kindness by using his superpowers to defend his people and defeat the enemy.

Black Panther was kind to his family and friends by protecting them from the evil rebels who try to hurt them and take over their country. With the help from his family and female warriors in the community, he was able to fight off the evil rebels and Killmonger.
