The fungi kingdom

1. Drag and drop the information to the correct place.

They are multicellular fungus. They live on the ground and they reproduce by spores. They can be edible or poisonous.

They are multicellular but microscopic. They feed on the remains of living things and on the decomposing matter.

They are unicellular and microscopic. They are used in food industry to produce bread, cheese and wine mould

capped fungi

yeast

2. Watch the video and answer the questions:

1.What kingdom do mushroom belong to?

- Algae kingdom
- Plant kingdom
- Fungi kingdom

2.What kind of fungi do you know?

3. Fungi can perform the three vital functions?

- Yes, they can such as all living things.
- Non, they cannot.

4. Can fungi make the photosynthesis?

-Yes, such as plants.

-Non, they feed on the remains of living things.

5. How do they reproduce?

6. Are they multicellular or unicellular?

7. We can be infected by fungi to contact. True or false.

8. Penicillin is an example of (poisonous or beneficial)

9. Fungi reproduce by:

- Seeds
- Spores
- Parts of the plants

10. Fungi live above the ground so they are plants. True or false.

LIVEWORKSHEETS