Alfred Hitchcock: The Cheney Vase

Complete this summary with the correct option.

The curator of the Manhattan museum of Art _____ his unreliable employee Lyle Endicott for little reason. Both men are on _____ terms with an _____ woman, Mrs. Cheney, who is in possession of a _____ antique vase. Now out of work, Lyle offers his services to the _____ Mrs. Cheney as her personal house-assistant, _____ to every need ... and a few things she doesn't need – such as manipulating a broken cup and _____ It on the housemaid, opening her mail and scheming to make her think she is losing her _____, while all the time trying to _____ and steal the precious vase so he can sell it to an art _____ in Germany. After some time, Mrs. Cheney begins to _____ Lyle and _____ a brilliant scheme to get one over on him! She makes several duplicates and only she knows which is the _____. On top, she tells Lyle she intends to sell the _____ and make a lot of money from them.

LIVEWORKSHEETS