I'm Jake, and last night I had to watch a programme on TV that was all about recycling. Our teacher said we should watch it for our class project. In the programme, a scientist was talking about how important it is to recycle everything we can. He was very passionate about it all, and he clearly thought that we don't recycle enough. For example, he said that some things, like carrier bags, for example, aren't recycled. There's the same problem with many plastic bottles. I found that surprising. But he was pleased that a lot of garden waste is composted, and that some fleeces are made from plastic bottles. In fact, the fleece that I wear for school is made from recycled materials. No wonder it smells funny!

0 Jake watched the TV programme because his teacher told him to.	(True.)	False.	Doesn't say.
1 The scientist in the programme was happy about how much we recycle.	True.	False.	Doesn't say.
2 Carrier bags are the only things that we don't recycle now.	True.	False.	Doesn't say.
3 It's difficult to recycle plastic bottles in some places.	True.	False.	Doesn't say.
4 The scientist was happy about what is happening with garden waste.	True.	False.	Doesn't say.
5 The students' fleeces at Jake's school are made from recycled plastic bottles.	True.	False.	Doesn't say.
