A- The magistrate and owner of Thrushcross Grange before Edgar. Although he looks down on the Earnshaws and Heathcliff, he is essentially kindly and looks after Catherine when she is caught by the dogs at the Grange.

B- She is a woman that Hindley meets while at college, marries and brings back to Wuthering Heights. She is childish and physically weak, and dies soon after giving birth to Hareton.

C- A strict and grave man with no sense of humour. Nevertheless he is a kindly man who takes pity on Heathcliff when he is found alone and starving in the streets of a city in England and adopts him as his own son. Unfortunately, he favours Heathcliff above his true son, creating enmities which would have long-lasting consequences.

D- Like her husband, a kindly person who helps transform Catherine from a rough, wild child to a young lady. She has a dislike of Heathcliff. She brings Catherine to the Grange when the girl catches a fever and contracts it herself, dying from it as a result.

E- He hates Heathcliff from the start because of his father's preference for the latter and treats him badly. When his wife dies, he descends into gambling and drunkenness. Heathcliff gains his revenge by buying Wuthering Heights from him.

F- His breeding and wealth attracted Catherine though Heathcliff was her true love.

G- The book essentially follows his story from first appearance at Wuthering Heights to his death there.

H- She dies two years after Heathcliff's arrival. She is not very happy at her husband bringing Heathcliff to their home.

I- Heathcliff's love and heroine of the story although she dies part of the way through the book.

J- She loves Heathcliff, seeing him as a hero. She marries him.
