Fill in the blanks with the verb in the appropriate tense.

Yesterday I _____ (to go) on a date with a boy I _____ (to meet) the week before. On the morning after we first _____ (to meet), he sent me a message and we _____ (to start) chatting. While we _____ (to chat), he suggested going to the cinema and I said 'yes'. So, on Saturday, at about 6 p.m. I was about to exit my apartment when my cat _____ (to jump) onto the kitchen table, _____ (to knock over) a glass of water which spilt all over the table. I went back to clean the mess, and while I _____ (to wipe) the table a sudden gush of wind _____ (to blow) through an open window in my living room making one of my plants turn over. Seeing how the dirt from the plants was now on my wooden floors, I _____ (to have to) go and get the broom and swipe the floor. While I _____ (to get) the broom, the silly cat _____ (to step) right into the dirt and walked away gracefully leaving dirty paw prints all over the floor. It _____ (to take) me more or less twenty minutes to clean all of that up. When I arrived at the cinema I _____ (to feel) exhausted because I _____ (to clean) for the last half an hour. The date _____ (to go, negative) as well as planned, either. At first, I blamed him, but in retrospective I realize I _____ (to behave) badly, too. Maybe I should call him.