This is the whale who came one morning / afternoon / night . When the tide was low / high and the stars were bright. A humpback whale, immensely long / short . Who sang to the snail a wonderful song. Of shimmering ice and golden / rocky / coral caves.

And shooting stars and small / enormous / big waves. And this is the fin / tail of the humpback whale. He held it out of the starlight sea. And said to the shark / snail / fish "Come sail with me"

This is the sea. So wild and big / free , that carried the whale and the snail on his tail.

To towering icebergs and far-off lands. With high / fiery mountains and golden / silver sands.

These are the seas / waters / waves that arched and crashed, that foamed and frolicked and sprayed and splashed the small / tiny / minute snail on the tail of the whale.
