

Situation 1

Reporter	:	The streets look really pretty.
Mei Lin	:	Yes, I love the new year. This is a new year market
Reporter	:	Oh, yes! These red envelopes are nice.
Mei Lin	:	Yes, they're for presents.
Reporter	:	For presents? Really? What presents do people give?
Mei Lin	:	People usually give money, but they sometimes give sweets or food.
Reporter	:	Ahh....and what presents do you prefer?
Mei Lin	:	I prefer money.
Reporter	:	Hahahaha, yes.

Situation 2

Reporter	:	What do you do before New Year?
Mr. Lim	:	Well, people clean their houses.
Reporter	:	They clean?
Mr. Lim	:	Yes, and buy new things. It's important for Chinese people that things are new or clean for the New Year.
Reporter	:	Ah, okay. And, do you have a special meal?
Mr. Lim	:	Yes, we do. We usually eat fish, but there's a lot of different food.
Reporter	:	Ah, okay. When's that?
Mr. Lim	:	That's the day before New Year.
Reporter	:	Where do you eat?
Mr. Lim	:	At my grandmother's house. It's a very big meal.
Reporter	:	Who does she invite?
Mr. Lim	:	Oh! She invites all the family.

Situation 3

Reporter	:	Is that typical Chinese music?
Mdm Lee	:	Yes, that's the lion dance. Look! It's outside the restaurant.
Reporter	:	Does the lion stop at all the restaurants?
Mdm Lee	:	Yes, it does.
Reporter	:	That's amazing! Oh! What's that?
Mdm Lee	:	It's okay. Those are fireworks. Do you like fireworks?
Reporter	:	Emm...No, I don't. I think they're dangerous.
Mdm Lee	:	No, they're not dangerous but they're very noisy.
