PART 4 - Questions 21 to 25: Read the text and questions below. For each question, mark the letter next to the correct answer- A, B, C or D.

'The best age to start learning the violin is between three and six,' says Margaret Porter, a violinist and music teacher. 'It's the time when you are learning about the world.' Margaret, who lives in London, prefers to take pupils at three and four, although she has made lots of exceptions for keen five-year-olds. When she started teaching the violin in 1972, her first class consisted of her children's five year-old school friends.

Margaret's pupils have group lessons. Each group has about a dozen pupils and each lesson lasts an hour, once a fortnight. In addition, each pupil has one individual lesson a week with her. Parents also have to attend the classes. It is important that the parents take an active interest in the lessons.

From the earliest lessons pupils learn to play by ear. They do not even try to read music until they have been playing for several years, and for a long time there is a big difference between their playing and reading of music. Margaret says that her method is not supposed to produce great violinists, and always suggests that pupils who perform particularly well should leave and study the violin using more traditional methods.

21 What is the writer trying to do in the text?

- A explain why Margaret likes teaching the violin
- C give advice on how to find a music teacher

- B describe a different way of learning the violin
- D explain why Margaret has a lot of pupils

22 Why should someone read the text?

- A to discover how Margaret learnt the violin
- C to find out about Margaret's teaching method

- B to learn why it is important to read music
- D to learn why children should play the violin

23 What opinion does Margaret have about her best pupils?

- A They ought to find another teacher.
- C They could try harder.

- B They will become great violinists using her method.
- D They take several years to learn to read music.

24 Margaret's first pupils were

- A her children.
- B three- and four-year-olds.
- C her own friends.
- D her children's friends.

25 Which of the following would Margaret include in an advertisement for her classes?

- A Learn to play the violin with your children 2 lessons a week.
- B Watch your children learn to play the violin.
- C Group violin lessons for children - no more than 5 per group.
- D We'll look after your children while you learn the violin.
