Look at the pictures and choose the correct type of family it represents:

This family consists of a mother, a father and children.
This family consists of adopted children.
This family consists of only the mother or only the father with the children.
This family consists of parents, children and other members like grandparents, uncles, aunts and cousins.
This family consists of a father and a mother with children from previous relationships.
This family consists of parents from two different cultures.

Single-parent family

Bicultural family

Blended family

Nuclear family

Adoptive family

Extended family