1ST TEENS

FINAL EXAM

A) READ THE TEXT. ARE THE SENTENCES TRUE OR FALSE?

ROBOTS

Robots are not new. Robots are machines that use a computer brain to "think." People must put information into the computer, and that is called "programming." Then, the computer tells the robot what to do.

Messages are sent from the computer brain to motors in the robot's parts. For example, you send a message to the robot's legs, telling them to move in a certain way, and the robot walks. You send another message to the robot's arms and the robot moves its arms. Robots can even walk up and down stairs!

People can program robots to do many kinds of work. Robots work in factories because they can use tools, pick things up, carry heavy things, break things and work without resting, eating or going to the bathroom!
