Dear Robin,

I hope you are well. I am writing to convince you to give up your life with Batman and go back to school.

Firstly, you have been following Batman, bravely putting your life in complete danger.
I think he doesn't even give you enough credit for all the hard work you put in.

Isn't it always Batman who barges in first, with you following behind him?

You have been falling behind in your studies.

You are worth more than this, I suggest you to stop this and start focusing on your studies so that you can get an extraordinary job one day. I hope to hear from you soon.

Yours faithfully,

Cat Woman
