APPLE CIDER

Mr. Miller went apple picking with his daughters at an orchard on Sunday. The girls each picked a whole basket full of apples. When they got home, Mr. Miller said, "What are we going to do with all of these apples?" The girls suggested they make apple cider! Mr. Miller helped them peel the apples and boil them in some water on the stove. They added cinnamon, sugar, and vanilla. The mixture boiled for almost an hour. Then, they took out the big pieces of apple and the cider was done! They poured it into big mugs. The girls had to wait a few minutes before drinking it because it was hot. They loved their homemade apple cider!
