My Prom Night Day

It was September 20, summer of '99, the day of my prom night day. It was 10:00 in the morning and I hadn't gotten out of bed yet because my alarm hadn't gone off yet. It wasn't until then that at 11:30 my dad came and woke me up. I only had 20 minutes to get ready and go to the salon to get my haircut. I had never been so scared, because I have always been a very self-confident person, but that day my nerves had played a bad trick on me. You may wonder the reason for my despair. In fact, I was scared because that day I would dance with a very beautiful woman; someone who stole my heart. Finally, the time arrived. At 9:00 at night, at that door with a big sign that said "Welcome class of 99", there was that beautiful lady. I have to admit that my heart accelerated, to the point that my hands were sweating, because I had never seen a brave woman shine so dazzlingly. I took a deep breath, got out of the car and took her hand; It had filled me with courage. I danced with her, I was happy; and today after 24 years, I just say: I have never been so lucky!
