Buses for the Future

The Bus Rapid Transit system of Curitiba, Brazil is famous for its convenience and design. Buses for up to 300 people travel all around the city. Passengers board the buses from comfortable glass tube stations. If they don't have a pass or a ticket, they pay their fare in the station, so everyone gets on the bus quickly when it arrives. They can transfer to another route without paying again. Where different bus routes connect, there are comfortable terminals with small shops and restrooms. The system is efficient, and it's very popular with the people of Curitiba.
