Indicate which of these sentences do not contain a mistake in the formal agreement between the pronoun and its antecedent.

1. As the argument raised, everyone lost their temper.
2. People feel that they are acting together in a way that they rarely can.
3. Neither the letters nor the package reached their destination.
4. Each of the companies had their books audited.
5. Neither the manager nor the accountants explained their expenses to the board.

LIVEWORKSHEETS