Questions 14-20

You will hear a man telling some young people about a four-week study programme in a college.

For each question, fill the missing information in the numbered space with no more than five words.

STUDY PROGRAMME

If you want to study an interesting subject this summer, and improve your English at the same time, Highbury College is offering three very good courses. As is always the case, each course lasts four weeks. There is an (14)_____, which will deal with 20th-century writers and poets. There is also a course about (15)_____, which includes guided tours of the best galleries, and finally a course in Modern Architecture, with visits to some of the city's most famous buildings.

All the courses begin on the 14th of June and the (16)_____ is the 12th of July. Classes are from 9 to 3.30, leaving you plenty of time of other activities in the long summer evenings. Fridays are also free for you to have a break because there are lessons on Saturday and Sundays, too.

Now, about prices. The full price of (17)_____, but the college is offering special discounts for groups. The secretary has further details on that if you are interested. The price (18)_____ at the college hall – in shared rooms – all meals, full use of the library, and social activities, such as parties, outing, etc ... Oh, I almost forgot, all books are included too, so you won't have to spend anything on that. But if you need extra lessons, then you (19)_____. And you have to make your own travel arrangements to the college.

All the courses are for beginners, so you don't need any previous knowledge of these subjects. Your English should be (20)_____, of course, good enough to follow the lectures. If you are interested, see the college secretary, he'll be able to give you copies of the registration forms and the timetable for the course you want. So, does anyone have any questions.
