The Legend of Seran Lake

A long time ago, there was a small village in Kalimantan. The people lived happily near a big river. Did they have any problems with nature? No, they did not. The land was fertile, and the river gave them fish. In the village, there was a beautiful girl named Seran. Did Seran help her parents every day? Yes, she did. She was kind and loved by everyone.

One day, Seran met a young man who was a traveler. Did he come from a faraway land? Yes, he did. The young man and Seran became close. They talked every evening by the river. Did Seran's parents like the young man? No, they did not. They thought he was not honest. Seran believed in him and did not listen to her parents.

One night, the young man disappeared. Did Seran cry? Yes, she did. She waited for him by the river every day. The villagers asked, "Did you see him leave?" but no one saw him. Seran felt sad and sat near the river. Did the river stay calm? No, it did not. Suddenly, the river overflowed and covered the village. The people ran to the hills, but Seran stayed. The next day, there was a big lake where the village used to be. The villagers named it Seran Lake.

Did the villagers forget Seran? No, they did not. They believed her spirit stayed in the lake. The people respected the lake and remembered her kindness. Every year, they held a ceremony by the lake. Did they wish for peace and happiness? Yes, they did. The lake became a symbol of love and loyalty.
