

VOCABULARY REVIEW

ENVIRONMENTAL COMPOUNDS

1. READ THE SENTENCES CAREFULLY AND MATCH COLUMN A WITH THE CORRECT ANSWERS IN COLUMN B

COLUMN A		COLUMN B
1. Many studies suggest that acid	<input type="checkbox"/>	A. gases which absorbs energy from the sun, making the air warmer.
2. Many new homes now have carbon	<input type="checkbox"/>	B. change is natural and even beneficial.
3. To protect the environment, carbon and emissions	<input type="checkbox"/>	C. audit to make sure that they are environmentally friendly
4. Some people believe climate	<input type="checkbox"/>	D. fuels replaced by renewable energy sources.
5. After a recent study, a new conservation	<input type="checkbox"/>	E. effect can be reduced, or whether the damage is already too severe.
6. Many people would like to see fossil	<input type="checkbox"/>	F. sites rather than recycling because they are cheaper.
7. All new building projects are subject to a green	<input type="checkbox"/>	G. monoxide detectors installed in each bedroom
8. Many scientists argue whether the greenhouse	<input type="checkbox"/>	H. layer , it hasn't repaired itself yet.
9. Carbon dioxide is one of the greenhouse	<input type="checkbox"/>	I. forests continue to be destroyed.
10. Many countries use landfill	<input type="checkbox"/>	J. development as their main policy
11. If managed carefully, some nature	<input type="checkbox"/>	K. rain is a key factor in declining tree health
12. Despite efforts to protect the ozone	<input type="checkbox"/>	L. trading aren't enough, many environmentalists argue
13. Despite growing international concern, rain	<input type="checkbox"/>	M. reserves can still be popular tourist attractions.
14. Some political parties focus on environmentally sustainable	<input type="checkbox"/>	N. area was created to protect the ecosystem

