Using the Right Pronoun

- Subject pronouns are used as the subject of the sentence. They tell whom or what the sentence is about.
- Object pronouns are placed after action verbs or after the words to, for, with, in, and at.
- You and it can be subject pronouns or object pronouns.

Thinking Question
Does the pronoun tell who or what does the action? Does the pronoun follow an action verb or the words to, for, with, in or at?

Subject Pronouns	Object Pronouns
I	me
you	you
she, he, it	her, him, it
we	us
they	them

She listened to Hector and me.

Write on the line the subject or object pronoun in parentheses that completes the sentence correctly.

1. Owen made a poster for Kim and (I, me)._____

2. (She, Her) can draw forests very well._____

3. Damir needed (we, us) for ideas._____

4. Aki showed (they, them) the finished posters._____

© Houghton Mifflin Harcourt Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

LIVEWORKSHEETS