• “No matter the number, it is the state's responsibility to provide support."
• He made the statement while attending the 25th anniversary of Pelita Hati Special Needs School (SLB) at Beautiful Indonesia Miniature Park (TMII) in East Jakarta.
• Pramono said that education for children with disabilities in Jakarta needed more attention, as there were not many specialized schools available for them.
• Jakarta still lacks schools for children with special needs, with none at all in North Jakarta, as governor-elect Pramono Anung Wibowo vows to improve the situation.
• Jakarta governor-elect Pramono Anung Wibowo has pledged to introduce a gubernatorial regulation on education for children with special needs to demonstrate the government's commitment to securing a better future for individuals with disabilities.
• "I am among those who will look into this issue [education for children with disabilities] in depth so that autistic children and those with learning difficulties in Jakarta receive proper attention,” Pramono said on Sunday, as reported by Antara news agency.
• "In Jakarta alone, there are approximately 29,000 children with autism. In almost every city, not all of them have specialized schools [SLB] for autism or schools for children with disabilities. This is one of the issues we will focus on," said Pramono.
• According to official data from the city administration, as of early 2023, there were 89 SLBs in Jakarta. Of these, 13 were managed by the Jakarta Education Agency, while the remaining 76 were privately owned.
• However, the distribution of SLBs in Jakarta remains uneven, with North Jakarta having none.
