面条(noodles) 饺子 (dumpling) 鱼(fish) 花生(peanuts)

年糕(rice cake) 橙子 (orange) 洋葱 (onion) 月饼(moon cakes)

韭菜(garlic chives) 籽 (seeds) 苹果 (apples)

1. _____ represents longevity, Chinese people eat it on birthdays.
2. _____ represents wealth because it is shaped like an old golden ingot.
3. _____ represents abundance, so Chinese people eat it on Chinese new year to wish for an abundant year.
4. _____ represents getting taller and better each year.
5. _____ represents peace.
6. _____ represents giving birth to children, and Chinese people give them as gifts for new couples.
7. _____ represents family reunions, and Chinese people eat them on the Moon festival.
8. _____ represents smart.
9. _____ represents success.
10. _____ represents long-lasting relationships because of its pronunciation.
11. _____ represents children.

LIVEWORKSHEETS