Phần 1: Reading

While couples without a clear or equal chore division may encounter quarrels, a recent survey finds surprising results about gender equality. Modern couples organize their marriage and work out tasks, which may turn their marriage into a contractual relationship. Women may feel less happy if no one helps with assigned chores. On the contrary, in families where women do more chores but enjoy being involved in children's activities, they report more marital satisfaction. Men report fewer conflicts when they share more burden, but women appear largely unmoved."

Questions:

1. Couples without clear chore division may encounter _____.
2. Modern couples organizing tasks clearly may turn marriage into a business relationship.
3. Who reports more marital satisfaction: women in equal division or women involved in children's activities?

   ---

4. Men feel _____ when they share more of the burden.
   - A. more conflicts
   - B. fewer conflicts
   - C. unhappy

Phần 2: Listen and fill in the blanks.

"In my family, we have a clear plan. My mom does the (1) ------ every day. My dad hates cooking, so he does the (2) ---- ----- and repairs things. I am in charge of (3) ------ the houseplants and feeding the cat. My brother is lazy, but he has to (4) ------ his room every weekend."

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

LIVEWORKSHEETS

4. _____

LIVEWORKSHEETS