Alex has always loved sports, especially multi-event competitions. At secondary school, he trained hard every day and enjoyed trying different disciplines. His coach decided to give him a go in several challenging events, and Alex quickly discovered that he was good at endurance sports.

At university, Alex became interested in triathlon and pentathlon, which required both physical strength and mental focus. He later chose to compete in decathlon, as he enjoyed testing his limits across many events. After years of training, Alex finally won an international competition and was crowned with a gold medal.
