A passage from e-book

Back to Yesteryear with Dan Neramit

One of Thai people's childhood memories is of visiting a theme park called Dan Neramit. This theme park was always among the most popular destinations where parents, especially those living outside of Bangkok in other provinces, went with their children on holiday.

Also known as Magic Land, Dan Neramit was located near Central Lat Phrao Department Store on Phaholyothin Road in Bangkok. The theme park opened in 1976 and had been operating for 25 years until it was closed down in 2009 because the 25-year lease expired.

Dan Neramit imported 30 playthings, special machines and amusing activities from abroad. The machines include those that visitors can ride on such as roller coasters and Viking ships, which were popular among children and teenagers in that period.

Dan Neramit now has no more playthings and machines because they were moved or sold to another amusement park that is managed by the same owner. Only the Fairy tale castle remains at the entrance of the theme park, and the major areas of theme park has turned into go-kart tracks. But one thing is for sure, people will be missing Dan Neramit.
