

The most noticeable
the south coast of
is connected to addition of surrounded by approximately completely transformed
the west side
is displayed
eastern part
shows
accommodation areas
relatively untouched
on the west of centre of

On both maps an island [redacted], the first one [redacted] what the island looked before touristic development, the second one after.

The island, which has palm trees, is [redacted] 250 metres long. It is [redacted] a sea and has a beach on [redacted]. Over an undisclosed period, the island was [redacted] with the [redacted] a hotel and a pier, however the [redacted] of the island appears to have been left untouched.

[redacted] additions are the hotel rooms. 6 buildings, surrounding some trees, have been built [redacted] the island and 9 buildings have been constructed in the [redacted] the island. Between both [redacted], a reception area and a [redacted] restaurant has been developed.

A pier, which [redacted] the reception, has also been built on [redacted] the island, allowing yachts to dock and access the resort. Apart from the trees, the beach remains the only natural feature that has been [redacted], although it now has a swimming area.