Motorbikes

From the beginning of the 20th century, motorbikes have been a unique transportation means which has fascinated generations. As a modified version of a bicycle, the intention of its creators was, probably, to give a greater autonomy to a basic bike for a simple purpose of transportation. However, the infinite possibilities generated by the new invention were not immediately calculated.

Two monsters intensely competed in massive production in this field, the Indian Motorbike Company and Harley-Davidson's started operations in 1901 and 1903, respectively. They never imagined the variety of benefits their motorbikes have brought to people from then on. In fact, their motorcycles have been witnesses of times of peace and war, fun and disaster, simple transportation and protection of the community. What is more, they have broken barriers of sex and age, as a type of vehicle that both old and young men and women have dominated without any differences.
