Preparing for a trip

I always start packing at least two weeks before I go on a trip. Well, when I say 'packing', I mean 'thinking about packing'. But I think that's the most difficult part, to be honest. First, I make a list. Then, if I don't have something, there's time to get it. I'm going on a camping trip next week to practise for my Duke of Edinburgh Silver Award. I haven't packed anything yet, but I've made a list, and I've got my sleeping bag, clothes and waterproof clothes. I guess I should see if they fit in my rucksack next …

1 The writer

A hasn't started thinking about packing yet.

B has just finished packing.

C has already started thinking about packing.

High adventure

Bella stretched her arms above her head, then quickly put them back inside her sleeping bag. The morning air was cold and fresh. She could hardly feel the end of her nose. Luckily, her hat was still on. As she started to feel more awake, she could see that the sides of the tent looked bright orange. That was a good sign. It meant the weather was sunny and clear, not dull and grey. But, most importantly, was it snowing? 'If it isn't snowing, we'll climb to the top of the mountain today,' she thought. She couldn't wait …

4 The morning is

A dark and cold.

B sunny and cold.

C warm and sunny.

5 Bella wants to know

A if it is sunny and clear.

B if it is snowing.

C if it is cold.
