Work Ethic

While Scott was working in the dining room he heard that the dishwasher called out sick. When Scott was finished with his tasks, he offered to wash dishes. Was Scott taking initiative and showing good work ethic?

James came to work very tired and instead of doing his job, he went to the breakroom and took a nap. Was James being reliable?

Chef Chris told me that there would be no dishwasher and asked if we could help. Keaton and Michael volunteered to help. Is that good teamwork?

Sheri really loves her job and every time someone asks her how her day is going, she always says, "great." Does Sheri have a positive attitude?

Jamal enjoys working in Memory Care cleaning the tables and chairs. While in there, they were out of the rags he usually uses and was asked to use a different kind. Jamal made the change. Was he being flexible?

Keaton was cleaning the windows and was using the green spray instead of the blue. When we told him about the mistake, he got mad and walked away. Was Keaton being accountable for his mistake?

One of the cooks/dishwashers at Grand Villa called out for the 10th day in a month. Does that worker have good attendance?

During his dietary rotation, Jamal learned to fold napkins and clean and sanitize tables and chairs. Did Jamal learn some new skills?

When Michael was vacuuming the hallway and when he was told he wasn't doing it right, he got mad and yelled. Was Michael good at handling the constructive criticism?

Jamal went over to Memory Care and told them he would be there at 9:30am, but showed up at 10:00am instead. Was Jamal being punctual?

Scott, Jamal, Michael and Keaton work independently and stay on task because they like coming to Project SEARCH. Are these guys self-motivated?

When cooking in the kitchen for the residents, Phillip does not engage in random conversations with the other kitchen staff. Is Phillip focused on his tasks?

If you are working with your coworkers and they are rude to you and the residents, will they have a good or bad reputation?

LIVEWORKSHEETS