Extra Language Practice

Language focus

Determiners and pronouns

1 Underline the incorrect determiner or pronoun in sentences 1–8.

1 In one/every/both respect the products are identical.

2 Customers and producers all/both/each agree that changes to shopping patterns are inevitable.

3 You can keep the magazines if you like; I've read them all/both/every.

4 I've heard that two of the company directors can't stand everyone/one another/each other.

5 All/Neither/Either team are likely to win the competition this year.

6 Some/Much/No laptops have such high-quality speakers.

7 Few/Little/Several people have contacted us about our advertisement.

8 Lots/Most/Loads of trainers were returned because there was a fault in production.

2 Match each sentence beginning 1–8 with sentence endings a–h.

1	It's important to save for your future. All too	a	plenty of interest. Look at the advance sales.
2	While you are here you should make the	b	of you for coming to this meeting.
3	Despite it being a relatively new product there is	c	one, checking how much I'd spent.
4	He went through the items on the receipt one by	d	any took a free sample.
5	He has an awful	e	none as far as I'm concerned.
6	The quality of the food is second to	f	most of your time and visit the Pantheon.
7	I'd like to take this opportunity to thank each	g	often people get themselves into debt.
8	I was surprised by their lack of interest. Few if	h	lot to do in a short space of time.

LIVEWORKSHEETS