

Concluding Sentences- Matching Activity

Genetically modified foods are very dangerous to your health and the environment.

I have wonderful childhood memories of my mima's kitchen.

Indeed, with a little practice, most children can successfully whittle wood.

Clearly, genetically modified foods should be banned due to all of the health and environmental risks they pose.

Whittling wood can be a fun activity for children to learn.

I'll never forget those precious memories of my mima's kitchen.

Summertime is a great time to go camping.

Diabetes in children is directly linked to a diet with too much sugar and refined sugars.

Clearly, it's worth the little bit of effort needed to build a fun fort in the backyard.

In conclusion, too much sugar is bad for children's health.

Building a fort in the backyard can be fun and simple

As one can see, summer and camping go together like chocolate and marshmallows on graham crackers!

<http://www.englishworksheetsland.com>