13 Reading: My tiny house

Not many teenagers build their own homes, but 14-year-old Sicily isn't a typical teenager. Her little blue house, 'La Petite Maison', is 39 m². It's got a small kitchen with a cooker, fridge and sink, and a bathroom with a shower and toilet. There isn't a living room, but there's an armchair in front of the window. Sicily can read and relax there. There's a wardrobe under the stairs, with some shelves. And in the bedroom there's a special window, originally from her dad's boat.

The story of 'La Petite Maison'

THE STORY OF 'LA PETITE MAISON'

At the age of 12 ...
- Sicily decides to build a house for a school project.
- she draws the plans and writes a blog.
- Sicily's father teaches her a lot of practical skills.
- her father dies suddenly in a car accident.

Two months later ...
- Sicily decides to continue with the project.
- friends and volunteers help her with the roof and electricity.

After 18 months ...
- Sicily finishes 'La Petite Maison'.

Sicily's already planning her next project: rebuilding an old Volkswagen Beetle. Perhaps that's easier than building a house!
