2. Read an article about film awards. Are the sentences true or false or not mentioned? Choose the correct answer.

My night at the awards

Last Saturday night was probably the best night of my life. It was the British Film Awards. Every year the British public choose the winners of the awards for best actor, best actress, best director, and lots more. It's a very exciting evening and nobody knows the winners before the ceremony. People from the film industry come to London from all over the world, especially the USA. Photographers take pictures of women wearing beautiful dresses – Angelina Jolie looked very beautiful – and reporters interview some of the stars.

The evening of the awards starts with a good dinner and some entertainment. This year it was a dance group called Streetwise. They were excellent. After that, a well-known person goes on stage and announces the awards. It's always very quiet in the theatre then. They read a list of five possible winners, and then they open an envelope and read out the winner.

This year I was very lucky and got the award for best actor for my part in the film Dark Ages. I've never won an award before and it was a big surprise. Today I'd like to thank all the people who voted for me. I also want to thank director Charles Davies for choosing me for the part. Charles, you're a great director and a good friend – thank you. I'd also like to take this opportunity to encourage young actors to follow their dreams. Acting a difficult profession, but you can become successful. Look at me. I'm so lucky. It's wonderful to get up in the morning and do a job that I love. And people pay me for doing it! And they've given me an award! Yes, acting is a good life, but right now I'm just looking forward to a relaxing holiday far from the cameras!
