Last year my family and I went to Scotland on a sightseeing tour. First, we visited the beautiful, old city of Edinburgh, the capital city. We loved it! Then, we travelled northwest through this mountainous, historic region. We passed the imposing Stirling Castle, where many Scottish kings and queens were crowned, including the famous Mary, Queen of Scots. We saw The British Isles' highest mountain at 1,334 meters: Ben Nevis. We moved on to Inverness where we enjoyed spectacular views of Loch Ness. This lake is incredibly deep and famous for Nessie, the Loch Ness monster. We spent approximately 2 hours there on a boat. We took lots of photos trying to get one with the head of Nessie, emerging from the water, but it didn't appear! It was very cold so we could not go swimming or diving. We bought lots of souvenirs at a modern visitor centre next to the ruins of an ancient castle. It was a fascinating trip.
