MAY & MIGHT for predictions

What will she be when she finishes university?
She will probably be a nurse.

She probably won't be a chef.

She definitely won't be a housewife .

We use will/won't to show how certain we are about something happening in the future.

- Mark will probably go to France next summer.
- It definitely won't rain tomorrow.

The adverb of probability comes after will, but before won't.

We use may/might to show that something is possible in the future.

- I might go swimming tomorrow.
- She may not get here before the movie starts.

The probabilities can be shown on a scale from certain to happen to not going to happen.

100%	will definitely
↓	will probably might / may probably won't
0%	definitely won't

I. WRITE THE BEST ANSWER.

1. She _____ come to my party because she is ill.
   a. will b. won't c. may d. might

2. I'm sure he _____ pass the exam because he is studying hard.
   a. will b. won't c. may d. might

3. It's possible that she _____ visit her grandmother next weekend.
   a. will b. won't c. may d. might

4. Gabriel _____ be home by six o'clock - it depends how much work he has to do.
   a. will b. won't c. may d. might

5. The dog _____ die. It's very weak.
   a. will b. won't c. may d. might

6. We _____ go to the park for a picnic, although it depends on the weather.
   a. will b. won't c. may d. might

II. ORDER THE WORDS TO WRITE PREDICTIONS.

1.

I	better	marks	get	might

2.

fight	won't	I	brother	my	with

3.

I	give up	soda	junk	and	food	will

4.

longer	I	may	sleep	today

5.

won't	I	late	be	tomorrow

6.

may	watch	TV	I	less

III. WRITE SOME PREDICTIONS ABOUT YOU.

1. _____ (will)

2. _____ (won't)

3. _____ (may)

4. _____ (might)