What would you do if you were in Rashid's place?

Zoe Is everything OK, Rashid?

Rashid Well, I have a with the new project team.

Zoe Oh! What's the matter?

Rashid They're nice people and they're working , but there's a serious problem with their teamwork. They're just not working together. They don't share information with each other or try to solutions to problems together. So it means that sometimes two people do the same task, or they a lot of time trying to find information, instead of asking someone on the team.

Zoe I see. That's a difficult problem. Do they know ?

Rashid Yes. We had a meeting at the beginning of the project where we introduced everybody and everybody could talk to each other.

Zoe Maybe it wasn't enough. Can you do some kind of team-building? Take everyone out for lunch together or go to a café after work? Give them time to get to each other better.

Rashid That's a idea!

Zoe And why don't you have a team meeting morning? Everyone could share information and ask each other questions.

Rashid That might not be a bad solution, but a daily meeting takes up a lot of time.

Zoe Or how talking to them all about their teamwork?

Rashid I don't think that's a good idea. I don't want them to think I'm telling them what to do. It's difficult to decide. I'll think
