Ludwig van Beethoven (be) a famous composer who (live) in Germany many years ago. He was born in 1770 and (grow up) in a musical family. Beethoven (begin) playing the piano and composing music when he (be)very young. As he (get) older, he (become) even more passionate about music.

One thing that (make) Beethoven's life difficult was that he (start) losing his hearing when he was still a young man. Eventually, he became completely deaf, which means he couldn't hear anything at all. Despite this challenge, Beethoven (not give up) on his love for music. He (continue) to compose beautiful pieces, using his imagination and memory to hear the melodies in his mind.

Beethoven's music is special because it's full of strong emotions. Some pieces are happy and joyful, while others are sad and deep. He (write) many kinds of music, including symphonies, piano sonatas, and string quartets. His music has touched the hearts of people all around the world and is still loved and played by musicians today.

Beethoven's life (not be) easy, but he (work) hard and (overcome) many obstacles to become one of the greatest composers in history. His determination and passion for music continue to inspire people of all ages.

LIVEWORKSHEETS