Do you have a smartphone? Are you curious about the world? Do you want to get a picture of what's happening in your country and in the rest of the world? If so, news apps are for you. With a news app, you can keep informed wherever you are, even when you're travelling or waiting for a friend. Here are three free news apps that are popular now.

BBC News

With the BBC News app, you can read all the latest news from around the world. There are articles about politics, business and sport. The app also has videos and photos, including interviews with famous people and pictures of interesting events.

CNN

CNN stands for Cable News Network. It's an American TV channel, and its app is extremely popular. Like the BBC News app, it covers major stories globally, but also includes entertainment news. This consists of interviews with film stars and musicians, as well as travel suggestions.

Buzzfeed

The Buzzfeed app is different from the other two. It focuses on fun and interesting items, such as funny pictures, quizzes, and lists. You can discover which city suits you best or which pop star you resemble. The app also features articles on fashion, food, and music, appealing particularly to young people.

All these news apps are user-friendly, with a simple design that is easy to navigate. They offer a great way to stay updated on world events. So if you want to know the recent events in your country or see the latest advertisement for a new film, try a news app today!
