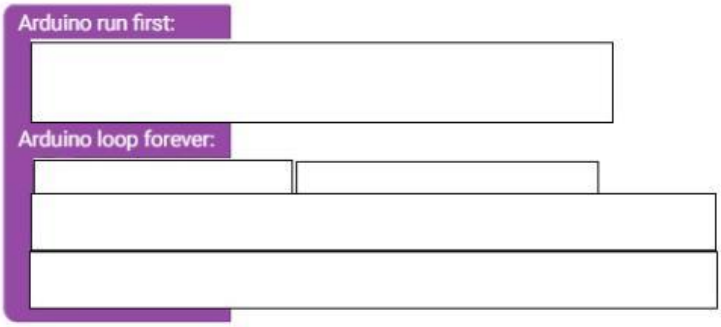
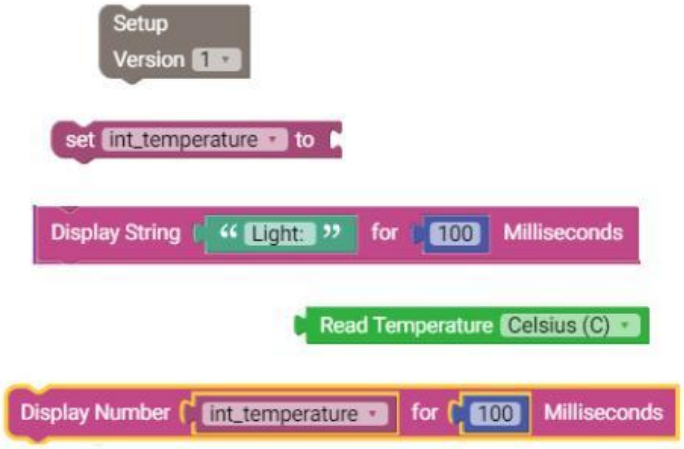
Noor is learning about using computational tools to collect data.

1. Create a block-based program to measure the temperature using a microcontroller, LED grid and temperature sensor component, then execute the program.

The program will:

- store the temperature value in a variable
- output the temperature value using the LED grid





LIVEWORKSHEETS