Nouns can be countable or uncountable. Countable nouns are things that you can count. Uncountable nouns are things that you cannot count.

We use a, an, or one before a singular countable noun.
an onion, a mushroom, one melon*

We can use numbers or some before plural countable nouns.
three onions, two mushrooms, some melons.*

We use some before uncountable nouns.
Uncountable nouns don't have a plural form. We don't use a or an.
some iced tea, some meat*

We can use that before any noun.
I'd like that melon.

3 True or false? Write T or F.

1 There are some apples. T
2 There is a cucumber. __
3 There is some rice. __
4 There are three onions. __
5 There is some soda. __
6 There are six oranges. __
