Sir Charles Baskerville ____ suddenly not long ago. People in the county were very ____. He was a kind and ____ man. Everyone who met him liked him.

His family was old and once very rich, but later they had money problems. Sir Charles made a lot of ____ in South Africa. Then he decided to ____ and returned to England with his fortune. This was a wise thing to do.

He lived at Baskerville Hall for only ____ years. (write as a text)

During that time, he had big plans to improve the house and help the area. He had no ____, and he wanted all the people around him to have a better life. He often gave money to local charities.

The official investigation did not explain everything about his death. But there is no reason to think it was a ____.

The doctors say he died from ____ causes. Sir Charles was a widower (his wife had died). He lived in a ____ way, even though he was rich. His only servants were a married couple – Barrymore and his wife. Barrymore worked as the butler, and his wife was the housekeeper.

Their story, together with what his friends said, shows that Sir Charles had problems with his ____. He sometimes looked pale, had trouble breathing, and often felt very nervous or ____. Dr. James Mortimer, his friend and doctor, said the same thing.
