Last month, my family decided to go on a trip to London. My aunt sent an email to invite us, and my mother sent a quick reply. We were happy about our flight and started packing before we leave.

On the day of the trip, we drove on the road to the airport. My little brother tried to cross the road without waiting. My father told him to stop and stand near the traffic light. When the light turned red, the cars stopped. We used the zebra crossing to cross the road safely.

My parents always teach us about road safety. They say we must look left and right before we cross the road. When we follow the rules, we stay safe and enjoy our trip.
