Instructions: Read each of the following short paragraphs. Rewrite each paragraph in the boxes provided, correcting all the errors you find.

Paragraph 1

The imminent scientist arrived at the school to give a presentation on physics. He spoke to the students about the principal of gravity and how it works. To who was he speaking when the bell rang for lunch?

Paragraph 2

We decided to walk further down the forest trail to find the hidden waterfall. The scruffy dog put it's nose to the ground and started to bark at a squirrel. If you are feeling tired from the hike, you should lay down in the grass for a while.

Paragraph 3

There are less students in the science club this year than there were last year. The club president sent a special invitation to my brother and myself. He performs so good on the piano that he was asked to play at the next meeting.

Paragraph 4

I am not sure weather or not we should go to the park this afternoon. If it rains, than we will have to stay inside and finish our homework. I will spend the time writing letters to my grandmother on my new stationary.

Paragraph 5

She was formally a member of the swim team before she decided to join the track team instead. I could imply from your surprised expression that you didn't know she had switched sports. The old school building, that is across the street from the park, is being renovated.
