3 Missing Pets
Have you seen these animals?

Lucky, aged 4

Lucky, a spirited terrier mix, escaped from his backyard during a family barbecue. He's microchipped but his collar may have come loose when he squeezed through the fence. He loves chasing squirrels and might be found in a park. His family misses him dearly and worries about him being out alone.

Lucky is small with white and tan fur. He was wearing a blue collar with a tag that reads "Lucky". He has a distinctive black spot on his left ear.

Princess, aged 1

Princess, a fluffy Persian cat, vanished from her carrier while her owner was moving apartments. The carrier was briefly left unattended outside a coffee shop. She's likely very scared and may be hiding in a quiet, dark place. She is strictly an indoor cat and has never been outside on her own before.

Princess is a long-haired white cat with blue eyes. She was wearing a pink collar with a small bell.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

Kiko, aged 7

Kiko, a talkative African Grey parrot, flew out an open window while his owner was cleaning his cage. He's very friendly and loves attention, and may try to land on someone's shoulder. He can mimic human speech and might say "Hello" or "Kiko". He is likely seeking out human interaction.

Kiko is a medium-sized grey parrot with a red tail and a distinctive bare patch around his eyes. He has a silver band on his left leg.

1. What type of animal is Lucky?
   A. Persian cat
   B. African Grey parrot
   C. Terrier mix
   D. Beagle

3. What might Kiko be doing if someone sees him?
   A. Chasing squirrels
   B. Hiding in a dark place
   C. Trying to land on someone's shoulder
   D. Meowing for food

4. Why is it important to know that Princess is an indoor cat?
   A. It helps identify her breed.
   B. It suggests she might be more scared and vulnerable outside.
   C. It explains why she was in a carrier.
   D. It indicates she is likely microchipped.

5. Imagine you see a white, fluffy cat matching Princess's description hiding under a bush. What would be the BEST course of action?
   A. Ignore it and assume it will find its way home.
   B. Try to catch it and take it home with you.
   C. Approach cautiously, speak gently, and check for a collar or tag with contact information.
   D. Call animal control and report a stray cat.

6. Kiko is described as "talkative" and able to mimic human speech. How might this information be helpful in finding him?
   A. It helps identify his species.
   B. It suggests he might be more friendly and approachable.
   C. It implies he is likely to return home on his own.
   D. It explains why he flew out the window.

7. You've put out flyers for Lucky and Princess in your neighborhood. What is the MOST effective way to follow up and increase the chances of finding them?
   A. Wait for people to call you.
   B. Knock on doors in the area, especially houses with yards or where you've seen similar animals.
   C. Put more flyers in the same locations.

Physical Description

Normally, the length of a Cendrawasih reaches up to around 13 inches. Known for its extravagantly gorgeous feathers extending from the beak, wings or head, Cendrawasih also has long bills and strong feet.

It has different colors all over its body, ranging from yellow and blue to red and green. However, the beautiful feathers are common properties of the male species only, as they need them for mating, to appeal to the female birds.

The male birds will show off their wide and striking feathers, while dancing a graceful courtship movement to charm the heart of the females. In contrast, the females' feathers lack in color. They have dull feathers to protect them when laying eggs and raising their young ones.

Most Cendrawasih are polygamous, although some also mate for life. Interestingly, monogamous male Cendrawasih are dull in color just like the female.

Conserving the Bird of Paradise

Notable for its beautiful feathers, unfortunately they are constantly a target of illegal hunting and are nearly on the edge of extinction. They are being killed by arrow, taken to be sold in malls or hotels openly for their feathers.

Besides, to be kept as a pet causing many people want to trade this beautiful birds. In Jakarta, one bird can be sold even more expensively, compared to the ones in Papua, ranging up to USD 600. Although still using Cendrawasih's feathers as a local ceremonies, trading has been banned by the Indonesian government. Unfortunately, not strictly enough, since the demand is still high.

The following text is for question number 30 to 34.

The Tragic Tale of the Bali Tiger

A. The Bali tiger, once a majestic inhabitant of the Indonesian island of Bali, is a stark reminder of the consequences of human actions on wildlife. This subspecies, known for its small size and beauty, sadly succumbed to extinction in the recent past.

B. While estimates suggest there were around 20 Bali tigers in 1900, their numbers dwindled rapidly within just a few decades. The primary culprits behind this decline were humans. Fear and a misplaced sense of competition drove villagers to hunt these tigers. Tigers were seen as a threat to livestock, and some hunters even killed them for sport, boasting their skills amongst friends.

C. Despite the last confirmed sighting occurring in 1937, a glimmer of hope emerged in 2009. A man claimed to have spotted a Bali tiger in the jungle, even capturing blurry photographs. This sparked speculation about the tiger's possible survival in remote areas. However, doubts clouded the report. The limited number of unclear photos and the lack of further evidence from the man himself raised questions.

D. The question of whether a few Bali tigers might still exist remains unanswered. While the 2009 report offers a sliver of hope, the substantial challenges in verifying it make it difficult to be certain. The lack of clear documentation casts a shadow over the possibility of a surviving population.

E. The story of the Bali tiger serves as a cautionary tale. Unchecked hunting and a lack of awareness regarding the importance of ecological balance led to the disappearance of a magnificent creature. Moving forward, conservation efforts must be prioritized to protect the remaining tiger species and prevent similar tragedies from occurring.

The following text is for question number 40 to 45.

This was my first experience going to Karimunjawa. It was so fun. I was so excited several days before the trip. I went there with other winners from different schools. We had the holiday last month, from April 21st to April 22nd. We went there by ferry.

Karimunjawa is a group of islands located in north of Java, around 83 kilometers from Jepara. There are two options if you want to get there. The first one is using a ferry, which costs 81,000 rupiah. It takes 1 hour 45 minutes. The other option is using a car ferry, which is cheaper, only 72,000 rupiah. However, it takes longer to get there, around 6 hours. The committee provided us the first option because it took less time.

We departed from Jepara in the morning so we could spend more time in the afternoon exploring the islands. Once we got there, we were taken straight to the hotel where we had lunch.

The next thing to do was enjoying the sunset at Bukit Love Karimunjawa. It was amazing! As soon as the sky got darker, we went back to the hotel. We had dinner before we continued our activity. We explored the hotel premises. The next day, we did other activities. We went snorkeling after we finished our breakfast. We had a chance to have our pictures taken with beautiful fish and coral reefs there. I also spent time swimming with sharks. It was both exciting and thrilling. We went back to the hotel once we finished all the activities. We packed before we left the islands.

Although it was a short holiday, we enjoyed ourselves. It was really fun.

40. What is the main idea of the second paragraph?
    A. The writer's excitement about the trip.
    B. The different transportation options to Karimunjawa and their costs.
    C. The writer's preference for the ferry over the car ferry.
    D. The distance between Jepara and Karimunjawa.

41. What is the main idea of the third paragraph?
    A. The activities the group did on the first day in Karimunjawa.
    B. The beautiful sunset at Bukit Love Karimunjawa.
    C. The hotel where the group stayed.
    D. The journey from Jepara to Karimunjawa.
