

NAME: _____

DATE: _____

Interdisciplinary Unit

Social Studies

Types of Families

A family is a group of persons that live together, provide for each other, love and take care of one another. Families come in different sizes and with different looks. There are six (6) types of families they include; Nuclear Family – this family has two parents and a child/children, Single Parent Family- this family has one parent and a child/children, Extended Family- this family has parents a child/children aunts uncles cousins grandparents, Step/Blended Family- this family has two separate families joined together by marriage, Childless Family- this family has a married couple and no children usually a pet, Grandparent Family- this family had grandparents and a child/children.

1. What are the six kinds of families?

2. Which family has one parent and a child/child?

3. Which family has a married couple but no child/children?

4. Which family has two families joined together by marriage?

5. What is a nuclear family?

6. What is an extended family?

7. What is a grandparent family?
