
Once, a shepherd boy looked after a flock of sheep near a village. He felt bored and wanted to play a joke. So he shouted, "Wolf! Wolf! Help!"

The villagers heard him and came running to help. But there was no wolf. The boy laughed at them. He did the same again another day. The villagers came again, but it was another lie.

One day, a real wolf came and attacked the sheep. The boy was scared and shouted, "Wolf! Wolf! Help!" But this time, the villagers thought he was lying again. No one came to help.

The wolf killed some sheep and ran away. The boy learned a hard lesson.

Moral: Lies destroy trust.

Read the story and choose the correct answer.

1 How did the boy feel at the beginning of the story?

A. Excited B. Bored C. Angry

2 Why did the boy shout "Wolf! Wolf!" the first time?

A. He saw a real wolf.
B. He felt bored and wanted to play a joke.
C. He wanted to find his sheep.

3 What happened when the boy shouted for help the first time?

A. The villagers came running to help him.
B. The villagers stayed at home.
C. A real wolf attacked the sheep.

4 Why didn't the villagers come to help the boy when the real wolf attacked?

A. They were sleeping.
B. They thought he was lying again.
C. They were having a BBQ.

5 What happened to the sheep when the real wolf attacked?

A. They ran into the village.
B. Some sheep were killed.
C. They hid in the forest.

6 What lesson did the boy learn at the end of the story?

A. Lying was a good thing.
B. Lies destroy trust.
C. Playing jokes was fun.